No.25. 03/10/16

After a huge effort by all the team, we managed to move the café into their new location over the weekend and also move the gas and water inlets to their new locations outside. It is always nervous times when you have to relocate gas and water mains but the plumbers did a great job and had everything back up and running in a day, on Sunday. Thanks to everyone who gave up their time in the weekend to get this across the line, especially the ones who missed the All blacks game! There was also some good progress on the outside paved area prep, eastern walkway framing and the demolition inside the old library area.

This week we will be continuing with the exterior paving prep, continue the demolition inside the old library area and old café area, install new services in the library area, start the new ceiling panels inside the library area, start the framing to the new prayer room lobbies, start the plywood on the eastern canopy, start the sports court on the eastern side, complete the drainage, continue with the slab prep outside and continue the water-proofing membrane on the western walkway. Unfortunately the weather is not looking too great for the week again so we will have to see if this changes before we commit to pouring any concrete outside.

Next week, we will install the ceiling panels to the library area, continue with the sports court construction, start transforming the old feature wall to the new feature wall design, continue the walkway membrane, complete the eastern walkway plywood and hopefully we will start pouring some concrete outside.

We hope you enjoy the new café location, it means there will be a lot more room for everyone once we have completed the transformation and we are looking forward to creating the new feature wall area over the next 2-3 weeks.

"Safety is no accident"

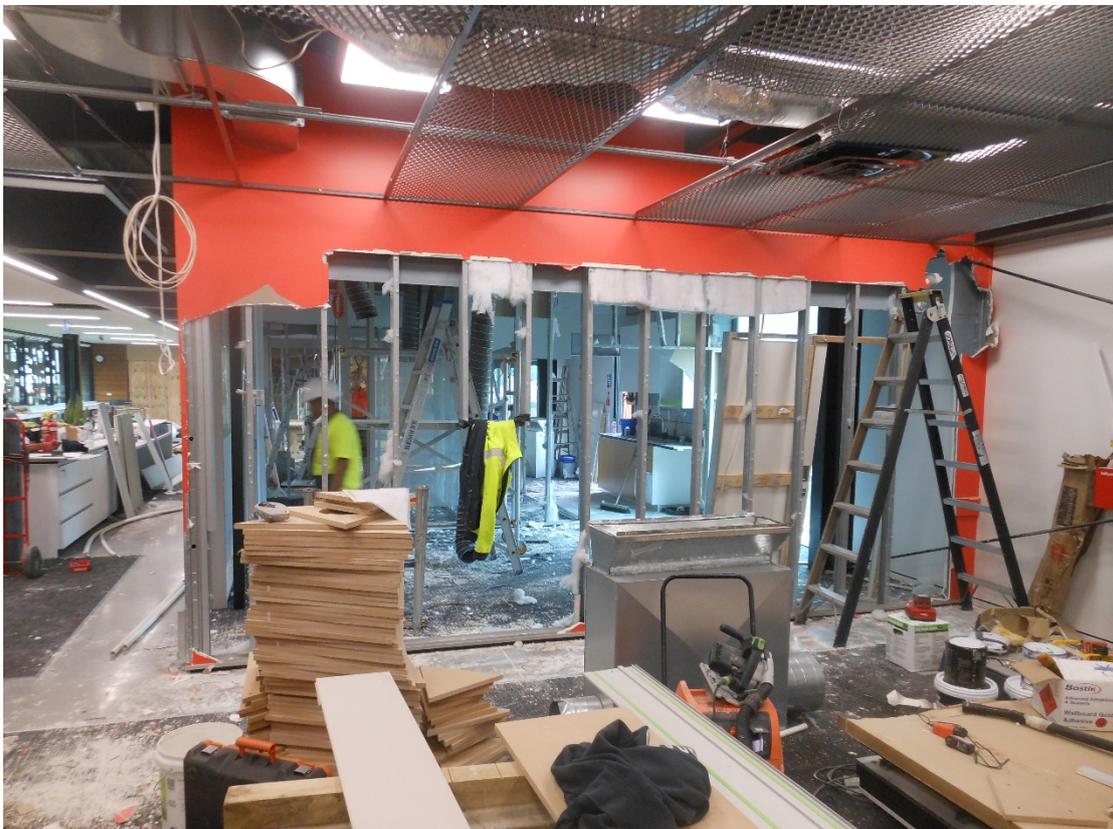

The new café area is up and running.

The dining area is a great size and will a great space to enjoy the café food.

The paving prep is going well.

The demolition to the old library offices has progressed well last week.
